REPORT

OF THE

Superintending School Committee,

FOR 1882-83.

DISTRICT No. 1. Money, $249.08.

NELSON GILLINGHAM, Prudential Committee

Three terms. 29 weeks. Teacher, Morris W. Morse.

Most of the pupils made very creditable progress during the year. The methods of teaching were interesting, and well calculated to awaken thought. The attendance in the spring and fall terms was quite irregular, but there was a marked improvement in this respect in the winter, the average attendance being 93 per cent of the whole number. The order of the school is deficient.

DISTRICT No. 2. Money, $161.72.

FRANK E. LEIGHTON, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. 23 weeks. Teacher of the spring term, Miss E. Lillian Colby. Of the fall term, Miss Ella E. Webster.

This intelligent and interesting school has usually been one of the best in town. The first term was a pleasant one, and the progress considerable, but the order among the younger children was unsatisfactory.

In the fall term the teacher secured excellent order, while the closing examinations could not but be highly gratifying as indicating the amount of work accomplished, and the evident thoroughness of instruction.

DISTRICT No. 3. Money, $169.12

MESSRS. CLARK, ROBIE, & UNDERHILL, Prudential Committee.

Three terms. 25 9-10 weeks. Teachers, Miss Mary E. Wilcomb and Miss Emma M. Moore.

Miss Wilcomb taught the three terms with the exception of the last month of the fall term, which was completed in a satisfactory manner by Miss Moore.

While there is no want of ability in this school, there is a lack of a high ambition to excel in punctuality, deportment and scholarship. The teacher did faithful work, had the good will of the school, and was specially successful in arousing the interest of the younger classes.

DISTRICT, No. 4. Money, $69.33.

J. BUCHANAN, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. Teachers, Miss Olive B. Hazelton, and Miss Carrie B. Hazelton. 12 weeks.

A lack of order was evident in the first visit to the school. There was a gradual improvement in this respect during the first term, and a steady gain in the short fall term. The teachers both worked with diligent and faithful endeavor, and to this the examinations bore witness, but to insure the highest results there must be the hearty coöperation of all the parents to secure prompt attendance, and obedience to the school regulations.

DISTRICT, No. 5. Money, $58.49.

WILLIAM WEEKS, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. 15 weeks. Teachers, Miss Lillie R. Dolber and Miss Nellie M. Emerson.

Good order and diligence were apparent in every visit to the school, and in general, satisfactory advancement was made. The parents gave their cordial support, not only to Miss Dolber, who had long ago won their confidence, but also to Miss Emerson, who undertook the school for the first time.

DISTRICT No. 6. Money, $65.21.

OREN F. PAGE, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. 14 weeks. Teacher, Miss Vina M. Richardson. Good order prevailed, and a general studiousness. A higher degree of mental activity on the part of the pupils, together with more animation in recitation, is, however, much to be desired. Perhaps the making of some much-needed repairs on the school building might give an impulse in the right direction.

DISTRICT No. 7. Money, $91.74.

CHARLES M. GREEN, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. 18 weeks. Miss Jennie P. Hazelton, teacher.

This school is one of the foremost in excellence. With a teacher who is an indefatigable worker, and an industrious and enthusiastic school, the highest expectations were realized. The order was admirable, the attendance remarkably good, and the quantity and quality of the work were apparent in the very thorough examinations with which the school closed.

DISTRICT No. 8. Money, $88.03

MRS. E. E. DOLBER, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. 14 weeks. Teacher, Miss Etta E. Griffin.

With almost faultless order and apparent studiousness, there is very great need of arousing the school from monotony of expression. It is perhaps most manifest in reading classes, but underlies most of the habits of study and recitation. The spirit of the school was harmonious, and the teacher gave general satisfaction.

DISTRICT No. 9. Money, $63.36.

AMOS SANBORN, Prudential Committee

Two terms. 16 1-2 weeks. Teacher, Miss Eva M. Knowles.

A school as small as this, while it affords ample time for explanations and recitations, taxes somewhat the ingenuity of the teacher to awaken the interest of its members. The behavior of the pupils was good, but most of them did not expend thought enough upon their studies, nor was there an earnest endeavor to attain perfect punctuality.

DISTRICT No. 10. Money, $47.06

ABEL B. PARKER, Prudential Committee.

Two terms. 14 weeks. Teacher, Mrs. E. S. Hook.

This little school is also a bright one. Each scholar seems to be awake and alert, and anxious to make the most of the privileges of the school. None of the five members were tardy or absent for a single day of the fall term. One was out for a half day, but with good reason.

ROLL OF HONOR.

The following is a list of the names of those who have been perfect in attendance for every half-day of a term.

IN GENERAL.

Many schools have done very good work this year, but a higher degree of scholarship is greatly needed by some of the teachers. Greater thoroughness in the common branches is the essential want, but all knowledge can be made to pay tribute to the teacher's work. A teacher who knows nothing of U. S. History, may be able to ask questions upon it from the book, but no one is fitted to teach it, who is ignorant of the great events in our Nation's Life. Nor should any one assume to teach Arithmetic, who cannot explain the nature of Fractions, or give the reason on which the rules for computing Interest or the extraction of roots, are founded.

It is unadvisable to put very young children into Grammar; but the classes studying it should be constantly required to frame sentences of their own to show that they understand the rules. Absolutely essential to the highest mental improvement is good government. To insure this, more attention should be paid to little things. The teacher must not submit to be interrupted during recitations, nor allow the pupils to pass to and from their seats in a disorderly manner. Children like something of the nature of a military drill, and are happiest when well governed. The atmosphere of cheerful and prompt decision which prevades some school rooms is a healthful one. On the other hand, alternations of indulgence and severity are most injurious.

Good courage, unfailing patience, great consideration for the wants of childhood, ingenuity and zeal in imparting knowledge, are some of the virtues to be exercised in every school room. Therefore let no one undertake to teach, who does not feel some real love for the work.

And while greater care should be taken in selecting teachers with reference to the wants of each particular district, parents should not be unmindful of their duty. They should put no unnecessary difficulties in the teacher's way, by countenancing irregular attendance or insubordination. Discussing the faults of teachers in the presence of the children creates more evils than it remedies, and free criticism is often indulged by those who do not know whereof they affirm.

CHESTER ACADEMY.

Mr. L. A. Curtis has taught a very successful school in the Academy this Winter. It is highly desirable that there should be two good terms of study here every year. Many cannot afford to go out of town to pursue their studies, and without some such opportunity the quality of our teachers will inevitably deteriorate.

Respectfully,

HARRIETTE A. MELVIN.
